Naturally under such a system the said owner soon became unable to pay up his shortfalls, and the balance was finally redressed by the commission agent himself bearing all the loss. Not quite "finally," either, for the whirligig of time had yet another revenge in store for the virtuous but suffering commission agent. He turn, becoming impoverished by the shortcomings of his clients, failed to meet his acceptances, which were thereupon returned on the drawers, thus causing the whole com-[380 sion" was discovered to be as bollow as the wildest speculation had been. Prima facie nothing could be safer than Valse. the indent or firm offer system, if carefully and conscientiously worked, and it is no wonder if even prudent firms should have allowed their transactions to assume large proportions in reliance on the essential price which leaves him a small margin for profit, and he thereupon books his contract simultaneously at both ends. He is not man to guarantee the manufacturer, who retard delivery of goods in certain contingencies; but that is not such a fruitful source quite sufficient to state the numbers of the kinds of dispute in this country as it is in India, at Hongkong Lieutenant Somerville was the poisoned, and, what was worse, the Chinsse proposed New Central Market? in cavil as a London produce dealer. The real danger to the foreign merchant is in the fluctuations in exchange. Having to buy in gold while he sells in silver, the accommodation between the two metals is the most serious difficulty he has to contend with. The first impulse of the merchant is naturally to fix his exchange at the time of making his contract, by which means he can calculate his profit in advance to a nicety, and may sleep comfortably on his contracts. In ordinary times no doubt the theory and practice nearly correspond. But the limes through which we have been lately passing are extraordinary, and the variations in the relative values of silver and gold have been severe enough to put a strain on the credit and good faith of all who are under their influence. When the goods contracted for arrive, from three to six months after conenormous rise in silver has taken piace which enables subsequent shipments of goods to be made, or competing goods which arrive free of exchange, to be sold, at a much lower dollar cost. What are the Chinese or Japanese buyers to do under such stress of Blakiston earned always increasing respect and circumstances? First they delay receiving 119 and paying for their dear bargains and finally the weaker in purse or morals tacitly repudiate their contracts. In China the repudiation will be rare, in Japan common, for the Japanese trader seems not yet to have learned to face a loss honestly. In the first place the lie-uses would have to boll out of the quantity allowed him by the farmer. and secondly he would have to boil a the opine farmer's establishment. If a person was allowed to boil elsewhere there is the objection that the opium would be souttored all over the Colony. Prepared opium was very much like whiskey in that cortain people preferred certain blends, and if persons could not get the blend they wanted from the Opium Farmer there was a very strong inducement to them to struggle that particular blend into the colony. The Colonial Treasures said the Opium The Actino Colonial Secretary moved the Farmer would hardly allow may person to compote with him in boiling opium unless he was allowed the full profit gained on each chest. The amendment was therefore lost and the clause as it originally stood passed. On Section S4, which deals with the Habilities of masters, owners, and consigness when illicit opium is found on board ship. The ACTING ATTORNEY-GENERAL said-I have to propose a slight amendment in this clause. On the last occasion the senior profficial member was good ouongh to say that to make the con-

signe · liable was ridiculous. Well. I dare say it is in his mind, but all the same it was put if with an object. The object perhaps is un-necessary on further consideration. There is o similar clause in the Vagrancy Ordinance ; there Hon. Ho Kai is a similar clause in the Sunday Cargo Working Hon. P. Byric Ordinance. In this case it is perhaps not necessary, because if any opiom is found on board the master will naturally be get-at-able. I therefore propose to omit the word consigned from the section. The Government have given a good deal of consideration to this clause, and if shipowners and those interested would only meet the Opium Farmer and would allow his excise officers to go on board the Government could delete the clause altogether. The clause as it stands. however, is really no hardship, because if reasonable and proper precantions are taken there is no liability.

The Council went into Committee on this Bill Hon. P. Ryers-I beg to ask for further delay in proceeding with this Bill. It is a most important Bill and it requires most careful consideration by the Chamber of Commerce . They are considering it now and they have not yet got through with it.

HIS EXCELLENCY-I have to-day received deputation from the Chamber of Commerce on this subject. I was asked to sanction the postponoment of the consideration of this Bill as the Chamber of Commerce had not yet considered it. They have only had one assembly and considered it for two hours. They considered it a very important Bill in the interests of the shipping community and that it should not be harried through Committee. No reason was given to me where the Bill was found to be defective or contrary to the interests of shipping, and I could only reply that so far from the Bill being hurried through it was read a first time on the 31st July, it was published in the Gazette on the good on the steamer's return as then; all to no 1st August, nearly three weeks elepsed before purpose. the second reading, it was read a second time ! on the 17th August, when the hon, member who moved the second reading pointed out the most important alterations and invited all those interested in it to consider it during the next ers or seven weeks when there was no session of ed his determination not to sail in the steamer the Legislative Council.
